

Richardson Associates (1993) Limited

- Educational Facility - Project Summary -

Project Name: Holland College - Centre for Community Engagement, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island.

The new Holland College Centre for Community Engagement was officially opened on the 1st March, 2012 marking a significant milestone in the Prince of Wales Campus redevelopment project.

The building which borders the quadrangle with the Centre of Applied Sciences and Technology and Glendenning Hall, the campus residence is a place where the college and community can come together.

The building is a 34,000 square-foot, three storey recreational and educational facility that provides a site for student engagement through varsity and recreational athletic and fitness activities. The centre features a 9,400 sq-ft gymnasium, state-of-the-art fitness centre, walking track, fitness studio, meeting rooms and classrooms. The centre also offers a broad range of services to the local community on issues related to health and fitness and will offer space for broad spectrum of community based events

